

RMSI Merchandiser FAQ

RMSI

Your brand, in place.

1. What is happening? The Jim Pattison Group (JPG) and Chatham Asset Management have entered into an agreement where JPG will sell its distribution centers, depots, trucks and backend services to Chatham Asset Management effective 12/31/18. The new company will be called American News Company, LLC (ANC).
2. What if I work in the TNG Merchandising (TNGm) or RMSI group, how will this transaction affect me? TNGm, RMSI, Karpata, Impulse and the Specialty Book Business will continue to operate as they do today. On a go forward basis TNGm will provide the necessary magazine merchandising services to ANC. TNGm's management structure and reporting will remain relatively unchanged. We will continue to provide the high quality merchandising services that we always have.
3. Will we still be called RMSI? Yes, we will continue to use the name RMSI.
4. What happens if there is a store or shipment issue, how does this process work? For now there will be no change in the contacts that you use for assistance or issues today.
5. Will I continue to have the same manager? Your manager will remain the same. If this changes you will be notified as soon as possible.
6. Are daily operational procedures changing? Your operational procedures (typical day to day business operations) will remain the same. Your supervisor will contact you with any changes that occur in the future.

Please also note that while we believe the answers in this guide are accurate and complete, there may be modifications made as we work through this transition.
